FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CMMS Provider eMaint Enterprises Continues Expansion - adds Chief Technology Officer and Increases Staff to Better Serve Clients

Marlton, NJ June 3, 2011 - eMaint Enterprises provides maintenance management software solutions designed to ensure a successful CMMS implementation, maintaining an impressive renewal rate. CEO & President Brian Samelson states, "Our 25th year in business serves to reinforce our position as a technology leader known for driving advancements in CMMS. We are committed to significant growth and are investing in the best people available to help achieve our goals, beginning with the addition of Lee Greco as Chief Technology Officer."

Mr. Greco brings over ten years of proven experience building and leading software development teams, architecting, developing and deploying high performance distributed systems; he was most recently Senior Software Developer for Thomson Reuters (a Forbes 500 company) where he was responsible for full life cycle management of several features of the Baseline financial information software package. In joining eMaint, Mr. Greco assumes responsibility for the leadership and direction of the development staff; managing the ongoing development of X3 CMMS, guiding technology improvements and developing the next generation of eMaint's CMMS products.

National Account management, sales, marketing and professional services fall under Executive Vice President Hannelore Fineman, who reports, "eMaint is dedicated to providing the highest level of service and support to our ever-growing client base; as such we have both reorganized and created the position of Customer Success Manager to work with all departments to make sure the company is aligned to meet our client's goals."

Lauren Boothe, eMaint's new Customer Success Manager, will help to deliver exemplary support to a growing client base; to ensure retention rates meet or exceed 96% and to focus on the eMaint Advantage Circle program designed specifically to meet the unique and evolving needs of top tier customers. The Sales & Marketing team has been re-engineered to better handle the increased volume of inquiries and is now comprised of both seasoned veterans and new recruits with outstanding academic achievements. The expansion included two Sales Development Associates, Bill Green and Danielle Mazeika, as well as Account Executive, Jon Little. In addition, Lisa Williams will join the team as Marketing Coordinator. All are poised and ready to better service the needs of the existing eMaint client base who continue to experience success and wish to expand, therefore requiring additional training and services to maximize usage of the system and further improve ROI as well as to introduce new clients to the many advantages of eMaint CMMS solutions.
